The Revelation Of St John

These books were generally written with the special purpose of giving encouragement to the {277} servants of God in times of distress and persecution. The Revelation of St. John was written under similar circumstances, but is by far the most sublime of these writings. The interpretation of the Revelation appears to have always been a standing difficulty, in spite of the fact that there has been no age of the Christian Church which has not been able to draw consolation and vigour from its ...

The Revelation (i.e., Apocalypse) to John is an answer in apocalyptic terms to the needs of the church in time of persecution, as it awaits... The book comprises two main parts, the first of which (chapters 2-3) contains moral admonitions (but no visions or symbolism) in individual letters addressed to the seven Christian churches of Asia Minor.

Revelation to John | Summary & Facts | Britannica

And I heard a voice saying to me: Hear, righteous John. All the human race shall arise thirty years old. And again I said: Lord, they die male and female, and some old, and some young, and some infants. In the resurrection what like shall they arise? And I heard a voice saying to me: Hear, righteous John. Just as the bees are, and differ not one from another, but are all of one appearance and one size, so also shall every man be in the resurrection. There is neither fair, nor ruddy, nor ...

A critical and exegetical commentary on the Revelation of ...

The name Revelation comes from the first word of the book in Koine Greek: ἀποκάλυψις (apokalypsis), which means "unveiling" or "revelation".The author names himself as "John", but modern scholars consider it unlikely that the author of Revelation also wrote the Gospel of John. He was a Jewish Christian prophet, probably belonging to a group of such prophets, and was accepted by the ...

The Revelation of John was written in approximately 96 A.D. V. 1-3: The word 'Revelation' = 'the unveiling'. The purpose is, "To show unto Christ's servants things which must shortly come to pass." "And He sent and signified it (to make known by signs or words) by His angel." The signs used (vision, symbols) are generally found elsewhere in the Bible, where the contexts help us to understand ...
